BISHOP ASKS AID FOR COLORED CATHOLIC SCHOOLS

No Color Line in That Church for Centuries.

Archbishop Hayes of the New York diocese through a circular letter has sent to the rectors of all the Roman Catholic Churches of his district his annual appeal for the support of the Afro-American and Indian Missions of the U. S. That appeal was read together with that of the Negro and Indian Missionary Board, consisting of Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishops Dougherty and Hayes, at all masses on last Sunday. We urge all citizens the country over to heed that appeal and contribute as largely as possible. We, as a race, rise in grateful and profound appreciation of the grand and broad service of the Catholic Church for centuries past has rendered us. In the color of a man's skin as a parishioner and an adherent of the faith the Catholic Church practices no difference. In parochial schools the black and the white child by practice as well as by provision are one and the same as children of the Almighty. In the great influence of the Church for the brotherhood of man, the black man has had its most stalwart and enduring support.—(N. Y. News.)

PONCA CITY NEWS

OBITUARY

Francis Christian Gunn

Little Francis Christian Gunn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alec. Gunn was born in Ponca City, Oklahoma, October 2, 1919, and passed away February 24, 1920, age 4 months and 24 days. Thus writes the brief story of a little life that came to bless a happy home for so short a time, a little flower that budded in purity to give out her sweet perfume for a season. A little sunbeam that for a while cast forth her beautiful rays upon those who loved her and brought such cheer and comfort into their lives. Looking through a darkened glass of the present her loved ones are heart-broken, but we should remember that our sorrow is only temporary and that our tears of sadness will soon be changed into rainbows of never ending joy, our heartaches transformed into praises of Eternal thanksgiving, and our home now broken into a home forever reunited in God's great Holy land of promise. The little Angel of Heaven that was loaned to this earthly home for only this brief season, has been recalled to her place on high. She has been lifted far beyond this vale of tears, heart-aches and sorrows. She has gone to make her playhouse in the tented avenues of Heaven and to lend her sweetest childish smile to the Angels of Eternity. She leaves behind a living mother, father, grand-parents, a brother and sister, uncles and aunts, other relatives and friends and while our hearts go out to these loved ones in tenderest sympathy, we must bow in submission to the will of God, for "the Lord giveth, and the Lord taketh," and "blessed be the name of the Lord." Jesus wanted little Francis Christian for a sunbeam so,

"Be still, sad heart and cease re-
-pinning

For behind the clouds, the sun's
-still shining.

Thy fate is the common fate of all,
For in each life some rain must fall,
Some days must be dark and
-dreary.

Presiding Elder Brookins held Quarterly Meeting at this place last Sunday, February 22, 1920. Elder Brookins preached two soul-stirring sermons to a large and appreciative audience. At both services the choir rendered excellent music, a good collection of $13.07 for the day was raised. The A. M. E. Church under the pastorate of Rev. H. Harris is coming to the front with a membership of twenty-one. They have plans under way for a new church to be constructed in the near future by the help of God the earnest co-operation of the members and friends.

GEN. WOOD AND THE FARMER

In a recent address Gen. Leonard Wood declared that one of the great problems confronting the American people was to be found in the statistics which show that farm population is rapidly decreasing at a time when the demand for food production is increasing enormously.

"This trend from the farm to the city must be stopped," said the general. "And the manner in which it can be stopped must command the earnest attention of our statesmen without more delay."

It is rather significant that in a day filled with political clamour and clashing ambitions; when many men are seeking to discover some popular issue on which they can ride into office, that one of them should disregard popularity and put his finger on what is unquestionably the great vital issue of the moment.

For under-protection in foodstuffs is an increasingly grave problem intimately associated with every other problem of the day. The ranks of the consumers have been enormously increased at the expense of the producers. And the movement from the right side to the wrong side is going steadily on.

That is an undisputed proposition. To correct this situation is to set at work a rule that will speedily abate all other economic difficulties, when the ranks of the producers are swelled to their proper proportions living costs will largely adjust themselves and labor problems likewise. But so long as one man is charged with growing bread not only for himself but for several others, just so long will there exist a vicious economic endless chain to breed trouble incapable of solution in the political arena.

It is evident that General Wood is thinking and thinking deeply. And it is also evident that his conclusions represent the best interests of the republic.—Tulsa World.

"WILD AND WOOLLY" SOUTH- WEST IS TAMING DOWN

Sheriff Neil Says Business Is Not
What It Was Some Years Ago

MIAMI, Okla.—Prohibition has transformed one of the wildest and woolliest counties in the Southwest to one where "nothin' ever happens." In 1917, Ottawa County, in the heart of the lead and zinc mining districts of Northeastern Oklahoma, had fourteen hundred arrests every year for major crimes. Bootlegging and crime were rampant. The Joplin saloons poured 157 varieties of liquor over the state line into the mining district and drug store bars were as common as soda fountains.

Now Sheriff Neil arr gets drowsy doing nothing, according to his own admission. Nothing ever happens. Shooting scrapes, gambling and bootlegging are almost things of the past. Immorality is greatly decreased. Illicit traffic in liquor has practically disappeared since January 16.

T. E. Brents, chief enforcement officer for Oklahoma, sees a new evil in "extract jags." He has warned merchants to be careful about keeping flavoring extracts with even a small percentage of alcohol.

"There is virtually no transportation of liquor across the line into Oklahoma now," he said. "Arid dryness has come with a rapidity that has surprised even the most optimistic federal enforcement officer."

Attorney O. B. Jefferson of Muskogee spent Sunday and part of Monday in Tulsa.
